TWENTY-FIRST SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Message from the Pastor

Peace to all of you!

This Sunday we celebrate the Twenty-third Sunday in Ordinary Time. The First Reading, from the Book of Wisdom, presents the futility and vanity of human life. Everything in life passes away, it is precarious. In front of the precariousness of life, we are called to put our trust in the Lord. He wants to give us a wisdom that brings us to look for what really lasts, what endures for ever. Let us open our hearts to the wisdom from above. The Second Reading, from the Letter of St. Paul to Philemon, gives us a presentation of the beautiful advice that St. Paul shares with Onesimus regarding welcoming wholeheartedly his slave Philemon. He has run away from him but has met with Paul in jail. Now, St. Paul is asking him to forgive him and treat him like a fellow Christian. At times, we all have resentments and disagreements, but the Lord wants to help us to find reconciliation and peace. The Gospel, from St. Luke, offers us words on discipleship. We are called to follow the Lord in our daily lives. The Lord wants to be the center of our hearts so that we may receive fullness of life from Him. All of us are called to follow Him with our own situations and hardships. If we rely in the Lord, we will realize that He gives us the grace to be at peace even during struggles. Let us open our hearts and follow the Lord with all our hearts so that in Him we may find life to the fullest!

Fr. Francisco Fernandez, Your servant and your Pastor

Pope Francis' Angelus on the Twenty-Third Sunday in Ordinary Time (September 4, 2022)

Jesus is making his way to Jerusalem, and today's Gospel tells us that "large crowds were travelling with him" (Lk 24:25). To travel with Jesus means to follow him, to become his disciples. Yet, the Lord's message to those people was not exactly appealing; in fact, it was quite demanding: whoever does not love him more than his or her own family, whoever does not carry the cross, whoever remains attached to earthly goods, cannot be his disciple (cf. vv. 26-27.33). Why does Jesus say these things to the crowds? What do these admonitions mean? Let us try to answer these questions.

First, we see a great crowd of people following Jesus. We can imagine that many were attracted by his words, astonished at the things he did, and saw him as a source of hope for the future. What would any teacher of that time or, for that matter, what would any astute leader do, seeing that his or her words and charisma attract crowds and increase his or her popularity? The same thing happens today, at times of personal or societal crisis, when we are especially prey to feelings of anger or we fear things that threaten our future. We become more susceptible and thus, on the tide of emotion, we look to those who can shrewdly take advantage of the situation, profiting from society's fears and promising to be the "saviour" who can solve all its problems, whereas in reality they are looking for wider approval and for greater power, based on the impression they make, their ability to have things in hand.

The Gospel tells us that this is not Jesus' way. God's style is different. It is important to understand God's style, how he acts.

God acts according to a style, and God's style is different from that of certain people, since he does not exploit our needs or use our vulnerability for his own aggrandizement. He does not want to seduce us with deceptive promises or to distribute cheap favours; he is not interested in huge crowds. He is not obsessed with numbers; he does not seek approval; he does not idolize personal success. On the contrary, he seems to be worried when people follow him with giddy excitement and enthusiasm. As a result, instead of yielding to the allure of popularity – for popularity is alluring – he asks each person to discern carefully their reason for following him and the consequences that it will entail. For many in those crowds might have been following Jesus because they hoped he would be a leader who could set them free from their enemies, someone who, once in power, could share that power with them, or someone who by performing miracles could make hunger and disease disappear. We can follow the Lord for any number of reasons. Some of these, it must be acknowledged, are worldly. A perfect religious exterior can serve to hide the mere satisfaction of one's own needs, the quest of personal prestige, the desire for a certain social status or to keep things under control, the thirst for power and privilege, the desire for recognition and so on. This happens even nowadays among Christians. Yet that is not the style of Jesus. That cannot be the style of his disciples and of his Church. If anyone follows Jesus with this kind of self-interest, he or she has taken the wrong path.

The Lord demands a different attitude. To follow him does not mean to become part of a court or a triumphal procession, or even to receive a lifetime insurance policy. On the contrary, it means "carrying one's cross" (Lk 14:27): shouldering, like him, one's own burdens and those of others, making one's life a gift, not a possession, spending it in imitation of his own generous and merciful love for us. These are decisions that engage the totality of our lives. For this reason, Jesus desires that his disciples prefer nothing to this love, even their deepest affections and greatest treasures.

To do this, we need to look to him more than to ourselves, to learn how to love, and to learn this from the Crucified One. In him, we see the love that bestows itself to the very end, without measure and without limits. The measure of love is to love without measure. In the words of Pope John Paul, "we are the objects of undying love on the part of God" (Angelus, 10 September 1978). An undying love: it never sinks beneath the horizon of our lives; it shines upon us and illumines even our darkest nights. When we gaze upon the Crucified Lord, we are called to the heights of that love, to be purified of our distorted ideas of God and of our self-absorption, and to love God and others, in Church and society, including those who do not see things as we do, to love even our enemies.

CWL THANKS YOU

PARISH HOME CATECHISM PROGRAM (PHCP) 2025-26

St. John the Evangelist PHCP provides faith formation classes for elementary school children. Our mission is to assist parents in developing the Catholic Faith in their children. This is usually offered to students in non Catholic schools, however it is also offered to all elementary students to increase their faith knowledge. PHCP runs 2 Wednesday evenings per month, 6:15– 7:15 p.m., September through to May. Classes begin Wednesday, September 10, 2025 with a “meet and greet” registration/activity evening.

PHCP REGISTRATION:

Registration for PHCP begins Monday, August 18, 2025 and will be open until Wednesday, September 10, 2025

For your convenience, registration forms are available on the parish website, at the back of the Church or in the Parish Office.

Please register in person in the parish office during regular business hours or you may place your registration package, labelled PHCP in the Sunday collection basket.

The registration fee is $60 per child. If you are interested in registering your child for PHCP and would like more information about the program, please contact Lorraine Thomas, PHCP Coordinator, 905-409-1743 or lthomas@archtoronto.org.

Please Note: Parents/guardians are required to provide a copy of the child's baptismal certificate for children who are NEW to the PHCP and who were not baptized at St. John the Evangelist Church.

Knights of Columbus, St John the Evangelist Council, meetings are the 1st Wednesday of each month from Sept to June. The next open meeting is Wednesday September 3, 2025 at 8PM at the Knights Hall at 133 Brock St North and all are welcome. For further information assisting the St John's community and becoming a Knight please contact Bryan Childerhouse bryan.childerhouse@roger.s.com or call 416-508-9877
